The Hundred League Live Score: Real-Time Updates, Stats & Points Table

Written by the TheHundredLeague.com Editorial Team | Updated July 2026

If you're searching for the The Hundred League live score, you want one thing fast: the current runs, wickets, and match situation without wading through a long article. In short, live scores for The Hundred update ball-by-ball, showing runs, wickets, strike rate, required run rate, and top performers for both men's and women's competitions, all in real time as the action unfolds.

Below, we cover everything a cricket fan needs — from how to read a live scorecard to team-by-team tracking, fantasy cricket tips, and why The Hundred has become one of the most-watched short-format tournaments in world cricket.

LIVE

London Spirit vs Oval Invincibles

Follow ball-by-ball updates, wickets, and required run rate on our dedicated The Hundred Live Score page.

Key Takeaways

- The Hundred League live score updates within seconds of every ball bowled.
- Each innings has exactly 100 balls, making live tracking faster and more dramatic than T20.
- Live scores include strike rate, economy rate, partnerships, and win predictions.
- Both men's and women's competitions run live score coverage across all 8 franchise teams.
- Fantasy cricket players rely on live scores to track batting order, death-over bowlers, and injuries.

What Is The Hundred League Live Score?

The Hundred League live score is a real-time feed of everything happening in a match — runs scored, wickets fallen, boundaries hit, and the current required run rate. Instead of waiting for highlights or a final result, fans can watch the match unfold delivery by delivery from anywhere in the world.

You can track the current match directly on our The Hundred Live Score page, which refreshes automatically and shows batter stats, bowler figures, and the target score when chasing.

What a Live Scorecard Typically Shows

- Current score and overs (balls) bowled
- Batters on strike with runs and balls faced
- Current bowler with figures for the over

- Target score and required run rate (in the second innings)
- This-over ball-by-ball breakdown

Why The Hundred Is Different From Traditional Cricket

The Hundred is a 100-ball cricket tournament run by the England and Wales Cricket Board, designed to be shorter and faster than T20 cricket. Instead of six-ball overs, bowlers deliver sets of five or ten balls, which changes strategy and keeps live scores moving quickly.

Feature	The Hundred	T20 Cricket
Balls per innings	100	120
Bowling spell	5 or 10 balls	6-ball overs
Match duration	~2.5 hours	~3 hours
Organizing body	ECB	Varies by league

Because the format is shorter, momentum shifts happen quickly — which is exactly why fans check the live score so often during a match instead of waiting until it ends.

Teams to Track While Following Live Scores

The Hundred features eight franchise teams competing in both men's and women's competitions. Here are the teams you'll see across every live scorecard:

- Southern Brave
- MI London (Oval Invincibles)
- Sunrisers Leeds
- Manchester Super Giants
- London Spirit
- Birmingham Phoenix
- Welsh Fire
- Trent Rockets

Explore More on Our Site:

- The Hundred Live Score — full ball-by-ball match tracker
- Fixtures — upcoming match schedule
- Records and Stats — all-time tournament records
- The Hundred Stadiums — venue guides
- The Hundred League Countdown
- Fastest Fifties in The Hundred History

Live Match Stats Explained

Understanding the key numbers on a live scorecard helps you follow the game like an expert, even if you're only glancing at your phone between meetings.

Statistic	What It Means
Strike Rate	Runs scored per 100 balls faced by a batter
Economy Rate	Runs conceded per over/set of balls bowled
Required Run Rate	Runs per ball needed for the chasing team to win
Dot Ball %	Percentage of balls with no runs scored

The Hundred Live Score and Fantasy Cricket

Fantasy cricket players depend heavily on live scores to make in-game decisions. Watching real-time stats lets you track which batters are in form, which bowlers are taking wickets in the death overs, and how pitch conditions are affecting scoring.

Quick Fantasy Tips

1. Prioritize aggressive top-order batters for higher strike rates.
2. Track death-over specialists among bowlers.
3. Check toss results before finalizing your team.
4. Monitor live injury updates during the match.

> Expert Insight: Because The Hundred's shorter format compresses the same drama of T20 cricket into fewer balls, live score swings happen faster — making real-time tracking more valuable than in longer formats.

Frequently Asked Questions

Where can I check The Hundred League live score?

Visit our The Hundred Live Score page for ball-by-ball updates, current run rate, and match stats.

How often does The Hundred live score update?

The score updates within seconds after every ball is bowled, so you're never far behind the actual match.

How many balls are in one innings of The Hundred?

Each innings consists of 100 balls, delivered in sets of five or ten instead of traditional six-ball overs.

Can I follow live scores for both men's and women's matches?

Yes, live score coverage includes both competitions across all eight franchise teams.

Conclusion: Never Miss a Ball

The Hundred League live score turns every match into an event you can follow from anywhere — at work, on the move, or simply when the TV isn't an option. With ball-by-ball updates, detailed stats, and real-time team tracking, staying connected to the tournament has never been easier.

Ready to follow the action as it happens?

Check The Hundred Live Score Now

TH

About the Author: This article was written by the editorial team at TheHundredLeague.com, dedicated to bringing cricket fans accurate live scores, team profiles, and match analysis for The Hundred tournament.

Note: Live scores and player line-ups can change close to match time. Always confirm the latest details on our live score page.